1. In May 1953 the Chinese Communist leaders will convene a conference of Asian Communist and labor party representatives in Peiping to review changes in the world situation since 1950, to summarize the development of the struggle in Asia, and to discuss future procedures and methods for conducting the struggle.
2. The date for the conference was being discussed among Party representatives throughout Asia in mid-December 1952, at which time LI Wei-han, director of the United Front Department of the Chinese Communist Party, was secretary-general of the preparatory committee for the conference.
